COUNTS 40 - 42

(Mail Fraud)

1. Paragraphs 1 through 5 and 7 through 16 of Count 1 of this Superseding Indictment are hereby realleged and incorporated as though set forth in full herein.

The Unemployment Insurance System

2. The New Jersey Department of Labor and Workforce Development ("NJDOL") administered unemployment insurance benefits, commonly referred to as unemployment compensation ("UC"), to persons out of work through no fault of their own.

3. As part of the qualification and filing process, UC claimants were obligated to file an initial claim with NJDOL. Claimants filed a claim by telephone or, in some instances, via the Internet.

4. After a UC claim was deemed eligible, the NJDOL calculated a "weekly benefit rate" ("WBR") and "maximum benefit amount" ("MBA") for a claimant. These amounts were paid to a UC claimant using a seven-day period beginning on a Sunday and ending on a Saturday.

5. After meeting the initial requirements, a UC claimant had to meet the following eligibility requirements to maintain UC benefits: (a) keep all scheduled appointments; (b) be able to work; [©] be available for work; (d) actively seek work; (e) not refuse any offer of suitable work; and (f) claim weekly UC benefits by telephone or the Internet. After the claim was approved, payments were not made to the claimant until the claimant certified (requested payment) for each week the claimant wished to claim benefits. During each and every certification, the claimant was required to answer seven questions. How the seven questions were answered was the basis by which a request for payment was approved or denied. Depending on a certain answer, the claimant might have been required to participate in a hearing to determine whether the claim was approved or denied.

6. As part of the telephone/Internet certification process, UC claimants were required to file a claim for benefits every two weeks once they were initially deemed eligible for benefits. UC claimants were provided an instructional guide to assist them in completing the bi-weekly certification process. Contained within the instructional guide was a sample form called "Claim for Benefits." The form provided additional information to further assist the claimant with the telephone/Internet certification process.

7. During the bi-weekly certification process, UC claimants had to respond to a series of automated questions when filing their bi-weekly claim, regardless of filing method used (telephone or Internet). The questions asked the claimant to verify certain information related to the six eligibility requirements set forth in Paragraph 5 of this Count. The automated questions were designed to continue the claim process unless the claimant gave an answer that needed further explanation. When a claimant provided an answer needing additional details, the claimant was asked additional automated questions, or the claimant was transferred to a NJDOL representative for assistance regarding the claim. During the interaction with a NJDOL representative, the representative obtained additional details about the answer the claimant provided. After hearing the information, the NJDOL representative made a determination about the validity of the UC claim. In either circumstance, the bi-weekly claim was resolved, and if the claim was deemed valid, the UC claimant received by mail the next UC compensation check within 14 days.

8. The bi-weekly certification process had seven questions related to the six eligibility requirements. Question #5 asked the claimant, "Did you perform any commission or self-employment work, or were you entitled to holiday or vacation pay?" If a claimant answered "YES" to this question, the claimant was asked to provide additional information about the work reported. If the UC claimant filed the bi-weekly claim by telephone, the claimant was transferred to a NJDOL representative for further explanation. If the UC claimant answered "NO" to question #5, the automated portion of the claim continued.

9. Question #7 asked the claimant, "Did you work during the weeks claimed?" If a claimant answered "YES" to this question, the automated system asked the claimant, "Did you work during the week ending XX-XX-XX?" The automated system continued asking questions related to the claimant's amount of wages reported and the number of hours worked during the claim week.

10. As part of the automated bi-weekly claim process, all UC claimants were asked to affirmatively certify the truthfulness of the claim.

As a result, the defendant received benefits to which s/he was not entitled as specified below.

17. On or about the dates set forth below, in the District of New Jersey, and elsewhere, each defendant specified per count listed below, for the purpose of executing the scheme described above, and attempting to do so, knowingly caused to be delivered by mail according to the directions thereon, a Benefit Account Warrant Check from the NJDOL in Trenton, New Jersey to the defendant's address in New Jersey as described below for each count:
